We give below the text of Genera

To the People of British America. We come among you as the foes of British rele in Ireland. Exiled from that native land of ours by the oppression of British aristocracy and legislation, our people hunted down to the emigrant ships or worse, to that charnel of government institutions, the poor-house; our country-men toru from their families and friends and buried in droves into the prison pens of England and Ireland; our cou subjected to a foreign tyranny, which dis-franchises the mass of the Irish people and makes poverty and misery the sad rule of their condition, covering our fair land with paupers graves and wretched hovels, eliciting from the liberal minds of England herself, expressions of shame for the government and indignation for the We have taken up the sword to strike down the oppressors rod, to deliver Ire-land from the tyrant, the despoiler, the We have registered our oaths upon the alter of our country in the full riew of Heaven, and sent up our vows to the throne of Him who inspired them. Then, looking about us for the enemy, we find him here—here in your midst, where he is most vulnerable and convenient to our strength; and have sworn to stretch forth the armed hand of Ireland and grapple with him. The battle has commenced and we pledge ourselves by all the sacred memories of struggling liberty, to follow it up at any cost to either of two alterna-tives—the absolute political independence tives—the absolute political independence and liberty of Ireland or the demolition the power of England; her priv alone shall we invade, not yours. We do not propose to divest you of a solitary right you now enjoy. We will assail and asperse only the rights that are claimed and enjoyed by the government of Great Britain-the right to make her American sions, and turn them against her in a war for Irish freedom. We are here, neither as murderers nor robbers, for plunder or spoliation. We are here as the Irish army THE CLEVELAND ICE COMPANY for the senson, at an remonable rates as any other tempetry in the city. Contracts undered into for args and small quantities. We conjure you, our countrymen, who, from misfortune inflicted by the very tyranny you are serving, or from any other cause, have been forced to enter the ranks of the emy, not to be the willing instrumen our country's death or degradation

If Ireland still speaks to you in the trues impulses of your hearts, Irishmen, obey er voice! If you would not be miscre nature, engraven upon the very corner stone of your being, raise not the hand of matracide to strike down the banner of Erin! No uniform, and surely not the lood-dyed cost of England, can emanc pate you from the natural law that binds our allegiance to Ireland, to liberty, to ight, to justice. To the friends of Ire-and, of freedom, of humanity, of the people, we offer the olive branch of peace and the honest grasp of friendship. Take it, Irishmen. Frenchmen, Americans—take it all and trust it. To all who march to he call of the enemy, and rally under his tandard to aid or abet his cause, we give he sword in as firm and carnest a gripe is over did its work upon a forman. We is ever did its work upon a foeman. We wish to meet with friends, we are prepared to meet with enemies. We shall endeavor nerit the confidence of the former, and ne latter can expect from us but the lenency of a determined though generous for and the restraints and relations imposed y civilized warfare.

The opposing forces encountered each other, as I have said, about 8 A. M. Tha Fenians broke down the rails on the left ide of the old Garrison road, and formed their line in the field. The skirmishers on the two sides opened fire and fell back. About six rounds of shot were then exchanged at long range. The Fenians now advanced on the double quick with fixed bayonets, but found the Canadians in a strong position behind brushwork, and were repulsed, giving way in some disorder. The Canadian troops then advanced out of the brush in nursuit, but vanced out of the brush in pursuit, but the Fenian forces were soon rallied and vanced out of the brush in pursuit, but the Fenian forces were soon rallied and charged again, driving them back through the brush. The Canadians could not again recover, and were rapidly forced back clear to Ridgeway, two miles and a half, where they had strong entreach-ments. The so far successful Fenians,
